'TEAMED FOR DEFENSE'

The first Armed Forces Day in American history, to be observed May 22, will emphasize the unification of the Army, Navy and Air Force in a three-pronged instrument for national security. Unification is already at work in the various far-flung American military posts throughout the world. Photo, left, shows Navy aviation machinist's mate, second class, J. Richey, of Swazooe, Ind., and Sgt. J. L. Runneman, USA, of Easton, Penna., getting acquainted on police duty at the Naval Base, Norfolk, Va., before embarking on the great combined Army-Navy-Air Force exercises in Puerto Rico, called "Operation Portrex," held in February. May Musical Drew Capacity Audience

The sixth annual Cedarville May musical, which was presented to the community of Cedarville last Friday night in the opera house by the Research club, the Woman's club, the Home Club, the Kensington club and the Auxiliary to Wallace C. Anderson post, American Legion, was well given and most favorably received by a capacity house. The president of the sponsoring organizations received the public in a garden setting arranged on the stairway landing leading to the auditorium. The first part of the two-part program, directed by Mrs. Paul Elliott with Mrs. Greer McCallister, featured a large chorus in group and solo numbers.

A pageant, "America, Sing On!" arranged by Mrs. Elliott, made up the second part of the program for which there were two readers and a background chorus. The pageant presented different types of our American music from music of the Pilgrims to modern band music, arranged in characteristic costumes and settings and given in group or in individual numbers. Mrs. Robert Turnbull was general chairman and was assisted by committees composed of members from the five sponsoring groups. The affair also was sponsored by more than 100 Cedarville residents and business houses and was felt to have been a real achievement in community effort and cooperation. Those in charge are deeply grateful to all who helped to make this program not only possible but also so successful.

Mrs. Ralph Cummings, treasurer of the May musical, asks that anyone having bills for the event present them to her as soon as possible.

Indians Drop 3-2 Game to Eaton in Tourney

The Cedarville high school Indians dropped out of the district baseball tournament Tuesday when they went down to defeat at the hands of Eaton's Golden Eagles by a 3-2 count.

All the scoring was confined to two innings, the fifth and seventh.

After both teams had passed up scoring opportunities in the early frames, Eaton broke the ice in the fifth. With two away Cutlers singled, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Long-neck's single.

The Indians attempted to win the ball game in the top of the seventh after two were out Jim Luttrell doubled, came home as the second baseman bobbled and then threw wildly on Jim Parker's slow roller with Parker taking second and coming home when virtually the same thing happened on Tackett's roller, giving the Indians a 2-1 lead.

Poppy Day In Cedarville To Be May 27

Poppy Day is to be observed in Cedarville, Saturday, May 27. The flowers are coming from the Soldiers and Sailors home at Sandusky, where disabled veterans and volunteer workers count and arrange them for distribution.

The work locally is being done by the Legion Auxiliary headed by Mrs. Wilbur Wisecup, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Robert Marshall and Mrs. Harold Strobridge.

"Each poppy has been assembled by hand by some disabled veteran," Mrs. Wisecup explained. "Veterans from both World War make them at the Sandusky as helpful exercise from the occupation, in addition to earning much-needed money for themselves and families. They often plead for the opportunity to make more flowers, but the number they make is determined by how well people buy them and wear them on Poppy Day."

"We hope that everybody in Cedarville and community wears a poppy gladly and proudly buying them May 27," continued the chairman. "They are a badge showing the wearer's interest in the cause and the disabled veterans, as well as in memory of the thousands who sacrificed much during both wars."

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Neighboring newsmen are on the front page.

Jack Jordan, scribe for the county's seat's palladium of liberty, and "Bud" Nelson, who may have some other name that nobody knows, are front-paging their way to present-minute fame.

Sir Jackibus is the Legion's head man in his home town, and that's no mean honor.

"Bud" (I am corrected; his front name is Warren, as it should be, having a county named after him, or before him, as the case may be) has stepped into Frank Buck's place and is busily engaged bringing 'em back dead.

When the circus wagon turned turtle down on SR-43 and a leopard, spots and all, rolled out, armed to the teeth, "Bud" put his nose to the ground, picked up the scent and was found a few minutes later standing with one foot on the dead leopard, and writing down for the Western Star and the dozen other papers that depend upon him for all the news from babies born that they know to escaped circus leopards, the exact details down to the number of spots on the so-and-so.

Will the congregation please rise, while we unite in singing, "Aww Hallelu!"

A WORLD'S RECORD

History does not reveal an example of a conqueror doing as magnificent work for the people who lost in a war as General MacArthur has been and is doing in Japan. It is a slow process. Revitalizing a war-torn, defeated, disaster-stricken nation is a Herculean task. It can not be done in a hurry. It takes long-range planning and patient performance. There has never been as much progress made by a nation on a come-back schedule as Japan is making. The significant thing about it is the attitude of the people towards the general and his program, and that the country and its people are progressing towards a far better living standard and ideals than they had before the war is gratifying.

SECOND STRINGERS

Around Indiana one hears more and more about Wendell Wilkie, II. People are saying that he is a bright young man, destined to outstrip his famous father in the news and achievement. You may remember that Franklin Roosevelt, II, refused to debate with young Wilkie saying, "Why should I give that upstart national publicity by letting him debate with me?" To that, one of the country's best-known men retorted, "Why should Wilkie lower himself by debating with a Roosevelt?" ... And there is Herman Talmadge, the son of Georgia's colorful governor. Georgians call him "Hummer." A candidate now on his own to fill an elective term, "Hummer" is receiving national attention again.

RELIGIOUS FEATURES

American newspapers are buying ten times as many religious features as they formerly did. The circulation of the Chicago Daily News rose 40,000 when it ran Fulton Oursler's "The Greatest Story Ever Told," the Christ story ... and it was the second time the newspaper had carried the fascinating feature.

TESTIMONY

Calling to the witness stand for expert testimony on a man with the record of Earl Browder seems to us to be the height of folly. If there is anybody whose testimony would be 100 per cent worthless on any subject it would be Earl Browder. What a travesty—expert testimony being given by Earl Browder!

CAN'T THIS BE DONE?

Before the official count is reported it is agreed that there are about 150 millions of people in the USA. Most of them are right nice folks. Capable. Loyal. Dependable. American. Why can't we have government employees about whom there is no question as to loyalty?

MONEY FOR SPAIN

News from Washington, is astounding—a loan to Franco Spain was voted down! Imagine Washington voting down a loan of any kind to anybody! Won't somebody please wake us from this nightmare we are having!

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

Church Organization and Leadership Acts 6: 1-6; 20: 17-18, 28; 1 Corinthians 12: 27-28 Memory Selection: II Timothy 2: 15

THE PRESENT LESSON shows the origin of church organization and leadership, a matter that Jesus left to the disciples.

Seven deacons were chosen (Acts 6: 1-6) to have charge of the temporal needs of the people. The high character required of them should be considered by present-day churches. Too often those who are not spiritual men are chosen because they are successful in their own business, or because of their prominence in the community.

Elders and bishops are mentioned (Acts 20: 17-18, 28), and it appears that they were the same. They were charged "to feed the church of the Lord," they were superior to deacons and their work was primarily spiritual.

Divergence of opinion as to the foregoing has brought about the several types of churches. Some hold to the presbytery, group of elders or presbyters, the government of the church. Others are organized about bishops. Some regard the elder as the highest order in the church. Some regard a bishop as an elder elected to high office, but not to a superior order of the ministry. Still others regard the bishop a separate order.

Let us realize that, in any kind of church organization, there is ample room for the service of men of diverse gifts, who make up the "body of Christ," in the kingdom of God.

CLARENCE J. BROWN Writes With a Buckeye In Congress

Monday of last week the house, by a close vote, approved a bill to put the nation's capital on daylight saving time until Sept. 24. Tuesday the senate approved the bill; Wednesday the president signed it, and at 2:00 a. m. Thursday morning the new daylight time schedule went into effect. Remember, Washington clocks are now one hour ahead of those in Ohio.

The little Greek boothback from Kansas City, John Maragon, former White House habitue, last week was sentenced to federal court to serve from 4 to 24 months for perjury before a senate committee. He could have been given 40 years, but the judge was lenient. Incidentally, the president's military aide, General Harry Vaughn, whose name was closely linked with Maragon's in the 5 percent racket investigation, went to Europe on an official mission just before the Maragon trial opened. The general arrived back in Washington a day or so after Maragon was sentenced.

Vice President Barkley exercised his seldom used constitutional prerogative of breaking a tie vote in the senate last week by voting to adopt a resolution universal test for all persons is to "if everybody did as I do, what would be the result?"

Dale Carnegie Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

Look Upon the Brighter Side

HERE'S A STORY with twin subjects, that is, two people giving the finest men in the world for a father. But as his father has grown older, he has taken more to worrying. He is particularly worried after listening to certain commentators on the radio, commentators who spread gloom through thoughts of disasters, many of which never happen, and even those that do are not minimized by predictions.

Mr. Campbell says that if he had put on his uniform and gone back into the service every time his father predicted war, the uniform would have been worn out by now. He has a cousin old enough to go if another war came, and since his aunt had two boys in the last war, she is terribly worried over the mention of another.

So every time the older Mr. Campbell went to see his sister, he talked war, disaster, and left her in a miserable state. One day when William Campbell went with his father to see his aunt and sister, he called his father's attention to how unhappy the woman had become. The father said he had noticed it. Then said the son, "You add to it every time you go over and repeat the miserable predictions you have heard."

He says his father was surprised, but pondering it a moment, he admitted that he believed this to be true. After thinking it over, he said hereafter he would express only cheerful, happy thoughts when he went to see his sister. It wasn't long before that sister was again her cheerful, optimistic self, and she doesn't even mention the war that hasn't yet come—and may never come.

The second case is that of a woman friend of mine who says in paying a call to a friend who is confined to her bed with a weak heart, she had just realized that she kept that friend filled with fear and apprehension over the way the country was being run, while she herself doesn't even bother to go to the polls to vote when the time comes.

She says she was brought to a realization of what a misanthrope she had become when another woman was with her and her invalid friend one day, and when she left, the two remaining, her own self and her invalid friend, felt so happy. Said the invalid, "It's a joy to have Gertrude around, isn't it? She's always so happy."

authorizing him to name the full membership of a special committee to investigate crime in the United States. A subcommittee of the judiciary committee, upon which would have been some of the top-flight senatorial investigators, planned a crime probe, but administration leaders blocked that effort and proposed the special hand-picked committee.

Behind the scenes, everyone in Washington is endeavoring to learn whether war is as imminent as has been rumored or another war scare is being manufactured to force favorable action on military appropriations and bills for peacetime draft, and military assistance to Atlantic pact nations. Most informed observers believe we have been losing the cold war, which is now warming up a bit, but that armed conflict is not in early prospect unless some unexpected incident provokes it. It will be a critical month in the world situation. An unwise diplomatic move or some trigger-happy military figure might set off a chain reaction which would quickly bring on World War III.

The ways and means committee last week continued to vote tentative cuts in wartime excise taxes. In addition to those reductions previously reported in this column, the committee has voted to eliminate the tax on a

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From A. S. Long of Denver: "I remember working in a small grocery store in Clarksburg, W. Va., as a young lad. One day when the owner was out, in came one of those aristocratic southern ladies who asked me to tell the owner to send over to her house a pound of coffee for tea. I didn't know what she meant, but she sent me with the coffee in time for her family's supper."

From Mrs. A. Gebhard of Cincinnati: "I remember when the sky was full of paper balloons every Fourth of July and the kids used to run after them when they fell to earth to see if they had any tags on them for a box of candy from a local candy factory or the name of the sender. Then they would fill them with hot air and send them up again."

From Helen Rodewyler of Chicago: "I remember sleigh-riding with my family at Christmas time when I was a little girl living in Iowa. Father would hitch the big Belgian team to a sleigh made out of a lumber wagon box, the bottom of which was filled with straw. We children and Mother sat on wooden boxes with a high wrapped brick at our feet."

From Mrs. Sophie Hayman of Chicago: "I remember when Mother took me to a funeral back in the carriage days. The funeral lasted all day and afterwards everyone went to a certain restaurant for a hot, full-course meal costing 25 cents, including beer for the men who wanted it."

From "Old Timer" of Decatur, Ill.: "I remember spending time back on the farm when I was in my teens. When mother got the cream in the churn ready for dashing, my three sisters and I had to do the churning. We took turns. So none of us would have to churn longer than any other, we counted the dashes we made, then would call for relief when our time was up. Mother would have us pump water out of the well until it got cold enough to rinse the butter down."

admissions to agricultural fairs, religious and charitable entertainments, and public school athletic events and to cut in half the admission tax on other public entertainment, including night clubs. Cuts in taxes on travel, freight, telephone and telegraphic bills were voted, as were reductions in the taxes on medicinal alcohol, chewing tobacco, and cheaper brands of cigarettes. Tentative excise tax reductions voted now total over a billion dollars, or $350 million more than suggested by the president. The committee may be unable to find means of making up the tax revenues lost, and the president has threatened to veto any revenue bill which fails to do so. In any event, it will be August or later before the new tax cuts will go into effect—if at all.

The house armed services committee last week voted to continue the registration provisions of the selective service act after hearing testimony from 50,000 people receiving old age assistance, given only to those in need by the various states, the Federal Government contributing from 60 to 75 per cent of the total. Average payments from the old age insurance contributory fund today are about $26 per month; the average payments of old age assistance, which are non-contributory, about $45 per month. The contributory old age insurance payments are obviously inadequate and wholly out of line with the cost of living. This is one of the reasons why industrial workers today are demanding private pensions in much larger sums.

The new bill increases these payments. Those already on the rolls would have their monthly benefits increased on the average about 30 per cent. The average payment for anyone who is earning more than $3,000 a year will be $72 a month, or $108 for an aged couple. The benefits are based on 50 per cent of the first $100 of past monthly earnings plus 15 per cent of the next $150 a month.

TO FINANCE the increased benefits the social security tax has been raised by 3 per cent, half paid by the employer and half by the employee. This tax goes up to 4 per cent in 1956, 5 per cent in 1960, 6 per cent in 1965 and 6 1/2 per cent in 1970. The increased benefits can be paid from the current tax probably without encroaching on the present reserve fund of $12 billion in U. S. bonds. It is not intended hereafter to increase the so-called reserve fund which will be used as a working capital fund. Since it has to be invested in government bonds, it is a visionary toward a pay-as-you-go system, for obviously no elderly beneficiary has paid for the increased benefits.

The House bill increased by about $250 million federal payments to states for old age assistance, aid to dependent children and support of the blind. This would have to be paid out of general taxes, and the Senate committee could see no reason why we should increase the huge federal deficit at this time and reduce the contributions of states which today are relatively solvent. An increase of about $50 million is allowed, however, for aid to dependent children and for appropriation to state-federal programs to promote maternal and child health aid to crippled children and child welfare.

THE Senate Finance Committee has practically completed its work on the Social Security bill passed by the House, known as H. R. 6000, making substantial changes from the House bill. At the present time, we have two types of Government payment to those over 65. There are 11,500,000 people in the United States today over 65 years of age. Of these, about 1,900,000 are drawing payments from the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Fund into which they and their employers have made some payments through the social security tax. About 2,000,000 people are receiving old age assistance, given only to those in need by the various states, the Federal Government contributing from 60 to 75 per cent of the total. Average payments from the old age insurance contributory fund today are about $26 per month; the average payments of old age assistance, which are non-contributory, about $45 per month. The contributory old age insurance payments are obviously inadequate and wholly out of line with the cost of living. This is one of the reasons why industrial workers today are demanding private pensions in much larger sums.

THE president left Sunday on a ten-day swing through the northwest sections of the country. The trip by special train is being made at government expense for the announced purpose of dedicating federal dams in the states of Wyoming and Washington. However, he will be accompanied by a full retinue of official advisers, numerous whistle-stop speeches have been arranged under the direction of Democratic party leaders in the various states visited, and Democratic candidates will join the president for his public appearances. The White House has announced that the president will make a "political" speech in Chicago Monday night of next week, and the Republican leadership has already arranged for Senator Taft to reply on Tuesday night. Capital news and radio correspondents are poking considerable fun at what they call the President's "no n-political whistle-stop tour of 1950," and are comparing it to his campaign trip of 1948. However, the taxpayers, who will foot the bill for the president's trip, seemingly fall to see the humor in the situation. "How-reaching congressional offices protesting the trip is any criterion."

Successful Parenthood BY MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

CLUTTER, NOT DIRT, is the real housekeeping bugaboo of most mothers. But how can a mother keep a neat house without having to be constantly yipping at the children. "Pick that up! Clean up this mess!"

One mother managed it by enlisting the help of the whole family. Together, they made a study of the spots in the house where "junk" just naturally seemed to collect for all the world to see—and proceeded to eliminate them. The result has been a much more peaceful family life all around and, amazingly enough, the children have a spirit of tidiness their parents never dreamed they had.

Here's how this family went about reformation: The first step was to see that each of the three children had places of study, with good light, drawer and shelf space. This eliminated living and dining rooms becoming study-and-clutter areas.

The next step was to make the enclosed, heated sun porch off the dining room into the children's sitting room rather than a general family room. Here they have their own radio-phonograph (secondhand but adequate) and their stacks of hair-raising records. Here they have an ornate low table, strongly reinforced to allow sitting upon, painted black and waxed highly to a hard finish that doesn't show marks. There's a couch and easy chairs to give each child a comfortable reading place where he can sit on his feet, munch pop corn, peanuts and apples, and swig milk and soft drinks without a single "don't" from parents.

This leaves the living room strictly for adults or whole family gatherings—a room in which general loitering, mauling, roughhousing and "taking over" by the young are strictly forbidden. This Mother and Dad say it's wonderful!

The next attack in this new plan for family living was upon the "junk gatherers"—the table tops and shelves which presented temptations to the children to dump their belongings after school or play. The front entrance hall had a covered radiator which offered a splendid place for unloading school books, caps, mittens and such miscellany. The "don't" was removed simply and easily by removing the temptation. The shelf now holds a large driftwood and phenoloneur plant arrangement. Now the entrance hall stays neat and uncluttered, for there just isn't any place to dump.

In short, by removing the availability of the living room as a dumping place and by handicapping convenient table tops and shelves in hall and dining room, it's practically impossible for the children to drop belongings any place but where they belong—in their own rooms, in the kitchen closet (now equipped with coat hangers) or in their sitting room.

Part of the whole scheme is the way the children have become more inspired toward neatness after seeing how pleasant their parents' orderly quarters can be. Imagine this mother's amazement when recently she came up on her two daughters industriously cleaning the windows in their sitting room "because the expert company and want to be neat."

License Fee Allocations Are Received

Greene county has received its first allocation of funds from the state, based on automobile license sales. The auditor's office reported the total of $79,331.04.

The road fund, as the law provides, gets the lion's share of the fund. Municipalities received shares as follows:

Jamestown, $883; Cedarville, $597; Bowersville, $218.50; Clifton, $70.25; Spring Valley, $318; Bellbrook, $248.25.

The larger towns' shares were: Xenia, $6,932; Fairborn, $4,053.24; Yellow Springs, $1,267.75.

Total fees collected at the outset in Greene county amounted to $110,182. The state keeps 23 per cent, or $25,341.86, and 5 per cent, or 5,509.10, in what is called an equalization column. All other cities, towns and villages must share from the 25 per cent column.

Final reports were withheld until collections were in from Wright-Patterson air force.

Volunteers working through the local chapter obtained $12,389.24 during the drive which opened March 1. This amount was boosted by $8,626.50 when a check was received this week from Charles D. Eastle, Red Cross field director at Wright-Patterson AF Base, representing this county's share in the collection there.

Former pastors were invited, and many who once attended the church came for the occasion.

Committees To Meet on Friday

At the same time, the Democratic committee will be meeting in the courthouse assembly room, according to George H. Smith, Xenia lawyer, committee chairman.
