

Preface to Paper by Hannah Malafy, by Marc A. Clauson, Professor in the Honors Program and Fellow at the Center for Biblical Integration, Cedarville University, April 28, 2023.

The following paper was submitted by Hannah Malafy, a Nursing major and Honors student, who has now graduated as of Spring, 2023. It was written and submitted in December, 2022 as an assignment from Marc A. Clauson for the Honors Senior Colloquium at Cedarville University. I had requested that each student write a paper in which they applied a Christian/Biblical worldview to their specific discipline, including a discussion of the major prevailing ideas in that discipline, the implications of those ideas, and the response by the Christian worldview, comparing and contrasting the ideas of each. Hannah Malafy's paper represents the best in integration in the nursing and cognate fields that I have read in my 20 years at CU plus years before that writing and reading on integration. I would recommend nursing students and nursing faculty read it as representative of excellence in integration. I should note that I did not require that students follow the framework for integration papers as required for faculty integration papers. However, I believe the substance of the work will be of great value.

Marc A. Clauson, JD, PhD

Professor of History, Law and Honors