4-27-2015

Learning to Speak

Sean Kisch

Cedarville University, skisch@cedarville.edu

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/music_composition_recitals

Part of the Composition Commons, and the Music Performance Commons

Recommended Citation

Kisch, Sean, "Learning to Speak" (2015). Student Composition Recitals. 94.

http://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/music_composition_recitals/94

© 2015 Sean Kisch. All Rights Reserved
-learning to Speak

I. Crying

Not too fast (\( \frac{\text{d}}{\text{d}} = 90 \))
Learning to Speak
run out of air

gasping, like trying to catch your breath
Learning to Speak
Learning to Speak

II. Babbling

Easy Pace \( (J = 100) \)

Tenor Sax

```
\( \text{slap tongue} \)
```

Cello

```
\( \text{pizz. arco} \)
```

```
\( \text{pizz. arco} \)
```

```
\( \text{pizz. arco} \)
```

```
\( \text{pizz. arco} \)
```

```
\( \text{pizz. arco} \)
```

```
\( \text{pizz. arco} \)
```

©2015 Sean Kisch
All Rights Reserved
Learning to Speak

improvise scat-type syllables (example below)

T

T. Sx.

tongue click
dum

T. Sx.

Vc.

21
tongue click
Learning to Speak
Learning to Speak

III. Speaking

Music by Sean Kisch
Lyrics by Nate Spanos

Quickly ($\frac{3}{4} = 128$)

Tenor

Tenor Sax

Cello

T

T. Sx.

Vc.

*Last note of every two measures optional for breathing

©2015 Sean Kisch
All Rights Reserved
Learning to Speak

pret-ty words aren't always true

Let my words be your truth

Let me resign

all those times I could have tried

all those fi - ts of
Learning to Speak

A Little Slower ($q = 120$)

Let my words always praise you

In stead let my
Learning to Speak

Tongue be sun-light and wind I'll beam what's invisible

Carry your seed Consider my lips Consider my

Mouth Consider them yours Use them however you
I'm learning to speak
I'm learning to speak your truth
Give me

Learning to Speak
Tempo I ($\frac{1}{4} = 128$)

Let me dispense with attempts at eloquence

after all pretty words aren't always true
Let my words be your truth.

Ah

p
Learning to Speak