2003

Old As She Thinks

Adria Curts
Cedarville University

DigitalCommons@Cedarville provides a publication platform for fully open access journals, which means that all articles are available on the Internet to all users immediately upon publication. However, the opinions and sentiments expressed by the authors of articles published in our journals do not necessarily indicate the endorsement or reflect the views of DigitalCommons@Cedarville, the Centennial Library, or Cedarville University and its employees. The authors are solely responsible for the content of their work. Please address questions to dc@cedarville.edu.

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedarvillereview/vol6/iss1/1
Old As She Thinks

Browse the contents of this issue of Cedarville Review.

Keywords
Poetry

Creative Commons License

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-No Derivative Works 4.0 License.

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedarvillereview

Part of the Poetry Commons

This poetry is available in Cedarville Review: https://digitalcommons.cedarville.edu/cedarvillereview/vol6/iss1/1
Adria Curts
Old As She Thinks

Old coat, crinkled and dingy, slides off her arm into mine
I chuckle, covered up like a front window, she doesn’t know
I hold tight as she eases into the chair
Sing in quiet like a fly to hear her slam shut, she forgets me
I say I am the girl at the counter
she says not to get old
Digs deep into her gigantic bag to find a few crinkled bills Interior with old prescriptions, ancient appointments, five-year-old Werthers, she slows my rhythm
Says Doctor won’t give her anything for her memory
I say she doesn’t look as old as she thinks, she pounds each question up Zips her purse as I gently guide her arm back into the coat “Don’t wanna be like those people who lose their memories,” she sighs and with one quick bite my face falls Shrunken and dry, she waddles towards the door
She forgets her prescriptions so I run them out to her, she’s in pain
Old As She Thinks

Whisper ever so loudly, sink her hurt past Confused, she asks me who I am
I say I am the girl at the counter
she says not to get old.